KING KALAKAU'A'S WIFE.

NEWS FROM THE ISLAND FAILS TO FLUSTRATE HER.

She Tells a Reporter All About Her Trip Abroad--Colonel Boyd Gives His Version of the Alleged Rebellion in the Kingdom--The Queen's Future Program.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Queen Kapiolani, and her company, consisting of Princess Liliuokalani, Gen. Dominis, her husband, Gen. C. J. Iaukoe and Col. J. H. Boyd, returned yesterday from England, where they took in the jubilee, floated a loan of $2,000,000, and had a good time generally. If the news of the Hawaiian revolution depressed their spirits they didn't let anybody suspect the fact. Everybody was apparently in the best of humor.

As her majesty swept into the Victoria she bowed graciously to those gathered to meet her, and throughout the day her face was all smiles. As one of the party said: "These little affairs occur so often on the island that they are hardly noticed. However, we don't know what has been done this time except from your paper." The revenue cutter Grant, under orders from the state department at Washington, was anchored down the bay Sunday night awaiting the arrival of the Servia so as to take off the royal party when the steamer arrived. On board the cutter were H. A. P. Carter, the Hawaiian minister; Consul General Allen, and A. S. Brown, chief clerk of the state department, who had been deputed by the authorities at Washington to welcome her majesty. They came to quarantine bright and early. The royal party was taken off and the Servia had fired a royal salute. The Grant steamed up the river to Twenty-sixth street. Here the Minnesota fired another salute and the royal party disembarked. Carriages were in waiting and took the party to the Victoria house.

The queen entered on the arm of Mr. Carter and the princess on that of her husband. Both ladies were dressed quietly in black cloth dresses, trimmed with jet, and looked very much the same as when they left. There were no traces of any trouble in either of their faces, and they bowed and smiled right and left as they recognized familiar countenances. Their apartments were those which they had occupied on their previous visit. They were followed by a mass of baggage, all very English. New trunks, rugs and hat boxes were in great profusion. Everybody was awfully hungry, so Mr. Carter was the only one who could be seen for the moment. He said her majesty was in no way alarmed about the news from the Hawaiian Islands. It was simply a change of ministry which would affect him in no way whatever as minister. These positions were not of partisan appointment, and, moreover, the new government really belonged to the party of which he is a member, and its premier, Mr. Grover, is an old friend and ally.

After luncheon a reporter called upon the royal party. Referring to her trip abroad the queen said she really had enjoyed every minute of the time; the jubilee was glorious. We went everywhere. It was a ball here, a garden party there and a never ending round of amusement everywhere. Of the members of the royal family the queen most fancied the Princess of Wales. She was the most democratic and took more pains to please and to show the visitors little attentions. The Prince of Wales was also a great favorite. When the conversation turned to politics the reporter was referred to Col. Boyd. "Let me tell you," he began, "that none of us know much about what has happened at home. As we know what is in the papers, and all that seems to emanate from one source. We have done what we started to do, and now we will wait to hear from home. I can say very little. I don't think there has been any revolution. If it was W. P. Castle would not be in San Francisco. He has too large interests at stake to leave the country in troublesome times. Besides he is a member of the party reported now in power."

"Who is the new premier?" "He is W. L. Green, who was a premier of the present king's first cabinet. He was ousted in just such a row when Gibson came in. He is a lawyer--office hours 11 to 12 o'clock--but his principal business is loaning money for English and Irish capitalists. The balance of the cabinet are all young men who have not been long on the island. I don't believe the published list can be correct, as these men would hardly get the positions from the Missionary party."

"What is the Missionary party?" "It is composed mostly of the descendants of the first missionaries, who found trading more profitable than preaching. Still they hang by Scripture reading a good deal in this wise: Two of them will be together at a native meeting. One while reading says to the other, 'Say, old boy, I've 1,000 feet of barbed wire. What will you give for it?' 'Three cents a pound.' The first goes on reading from the Bible, 'In that day, etc.' Suddenly he leans over and says, 'Can't sell for that. Think it over again and give me an answer when I finish the chapter.' 'There you have it. I hate the Missionary party. You see there are not many voters on the islands. Only property owners and those who read and write can vote. The crowd who seem to have kicked up this row are not voters. The Honolulu Rifles you hear about are about one hundred young men and not one of them is a voter.'"

"Who is Gibson, the deposed premier?" "He is an American and a very smart man. During the late war he was captain of a privateer. Then he was a Mormon. Finally he drifted to Honolulu and went into the country to raise sheep. He was head and shoulders intellectually above all the people round him. Then he came to the legislature. He was a fine orator and could make you believe black was white. He rapidly rose, and in his rise broke up a half dozen cabinets. The king made him premier, and all the country owns is due to him. He encouraged immigration and helped in every way to build up the country. In doing this he incurred the enmity of Claus Spreckels, and now he is out. I still think the published accounts of the trouble are very much exaggerated. I am as much in the dark as you. It will be some days before we know all about it."

No definite plans have been decided upon regarding the progress of the royal party. They may leave the city to-day and may be not until Thursday. Even then they may be some time in getting home, as they may visit Niagara Falls, Philadelphia and Chicago before they go to San Francisco. Commodore Gerhardt, of the Brooklyn navy yard, said yesterday that he had no intention of entertaining the queen, and the only preparations he had made for her visit was to keep a tug ready to land her from the Servia by order of his superiors at Washington.

Fire on the Water.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 13.—The sloop yacht Wave, of New York, with a party of New York gentlemen on board, caught fire yesterday afternoon during the storm and was hurled to the water's edge. The accident happened about three miles from the mouth of New Haven Harbor, and was caused by the explosion of a kerosene oil stove. The party consisted of Capt. Stephen A. Cooper, Charles A. Jones, W. F. Denyse, and Henry Terhune. The last named gentleman was badly hurt and is now confined to his bed at the New Haven house. The fire spread so rapidly that the yachtmen had barely time to get to their gills. The waves on the sound were running very high and it seemed as if the frail craft would be swamped and its occupants drowned. Fortunately the schooner Lydia Christine happened to be near by and rescued the entire party. The vessel was worth $10,000, and was not insured. The yachtmen had over $1,000 worth of personal effects on board. Mr. Terhune was hurt by a fall when getting out of the yacht.

Whisky Crookedness.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 13.—Early in June information was given to the internal revenue department at Washington that crookedness was going on at the "C. F. C." and "Carlisle" distillery warehouses at Frankfort. The officers found upon examination that it was necessary to regauge 4,400 barrels, and when this was done it was found that 500 barrels were entirely empty, while 1,200 of the 4,400 were short from ten to thirty-eight gallons each. An examination held before Collector Robinson developed the fact that in one of the warehouses was found a siphon and a bucket, besides all the necessary apparatus for "equalizing." The impression seems to prevail that the whisky has been stolen. The lowest penalty that can be inflicted is the ordering out of bond the 4,400 barrels regauged. This will cost the distillers in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Evading Customs Duties.
WASHINGTON, July 13.—Assistant Secretary Maynard has notified collectors of customs that he is informed that in importations of fabrics and gloves importers are greatly overvaluing the cartons and coverings, so as to reduce the invoice value of the merchandise, and that the coverings are being made of unusual designs so that this practice may have some excuse under the law. Collectors are informed that where such attempts to evade duty are found, the coverings should be assessed at 100 per cent. ad valorem.

A Family Killed by Lightning.
OPELIKA, Ala., July 13.—A heavy cloud passed over this place in a northeasterly direction last evening. It was followed by a brilliant electrical display. News comes that the family of John Bankhead, consisting of his wife and three children, who were standing on the veranda of their home, five miles from the city, watching the clouds, were struck by lightning. When Bankhead reached home he found two of the children dead and the other and his wife so paralyzed that they can hardly recover.

Jacob Sharp's Fate.
NEW YORK, July 13.—W. J. Canfield, foreman of the jury that convicted Jacob Sharp, has withdrawn his name from the petition to Judge Barrett, asking him not to sentence Sharp to imprisonment, but to impose a fine only. Judge Barrett has intimated that he feels it his duty to sentence Sharp to prison, but that on account of his great age and health, it will be a very short term. Sharp to-day was weak and ill, and unable to take more nourishment than a spoonful of milk at intervals. He is to be sentenced to-morrow.

Alf McCoy's Trial Begins.
PORTSMOUTH, O., July 13.—The trial of Alf McCoy, the saloonist and postmaster of Haverrhill, for the brutal murder of Dr. Northrup, the prohibitionist, began to-day. The opening remarks of counsel occupied nearly the entire day. McCoy's lawyers are claiming that this is not a legal trial of court, and in case of conviction will make it an exception upon which to move for a new trial. Nothing of interest developed to-day. There will be altogether 130 witnesses examined during the progress of the trial.

An Italian Fight.
CINCINNATI, July 13.—At 11 o'clock last night Vincenzo Sandara, of 17 West Front street, and Francesco Devoto, of 31 Race street, both sons of sunny Italy, quarreled while drinking beer at the latter's house, and Devoto suddenly sprang on Sandara and nearly cut him in pieces with a stiletto. He was out in the right breast and shoulder, and a long cut extended from the top of his head to his neck. Hospital physicians say his wounds will prove fatal. Devoto has not been apprehended.

Fire in a Coal Mine.
POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 13.—The citizens for miles around were excited yesterday by a fire inside of the Otto colliery. The fire started Sunday night and at noon yesterday the flames were leaping thirty feet from the mouth of the Holmes vein shaft. Sixteen mules were smothered to death in a lower gangway, but no miners lost their lives. The fire is now believed to be under control. The loss to the company foots up $50,000. It is feared that the colliery will be idle for six months.

Richard Mansfield's New Play.
NEW YORK, July 13.—Richard Mansfield's new domestic sketch, "Monsieur," about which there has been much interest manifested in literary and theatrical circles, was presented at the Madison Square theater last night to an unusually brilliant and representative audience. It met with pronounced success, the author and entire company being called before the curtain several times. Mr. Mansfield himself plays the leading part in the drama.

THE COKERS' TROUBLES.

THEY ARE STILL DETERMINED TO STAND OUT FOR THE ADVANCE.

The Operators Not Feeling Jubilant But Remain Firm--Indianapolis Printers' Strike--Convention of Boss Painters' Street Car Men in Chicago.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 13.—The meetings held by the striking cokers throughout the region during the last forty-eight hours indicate that they are still determined to stand out for the advance. Out of 890 votes at West Lisenring only twenty favored a resumption of the old rate of wages. The operators are not feeling as jubilant as on Friday, but they are firm, and assert that if work is not resumed this week by the strikers, other men will be put to work and additional Pinkerton men brought to the region.

The Miners' District Assembly of Knights of Labor is holding a convention here, but no decision in regard to the strike has been reached. The convention will be in session several days. At to-day's meeting resolutions were passed denouncing the importation of armed forces, and calling upon Governor Beaver to remove the Pinkerton men from the region, as their presence reflects on the coke-workers' loyalty to good government, is a menace to their homes and an insult to their patriotism. They also tendered their services to the sheriff and local authorities to preserve peace and maintain good order.

Printers' Troubles at Indianapolis.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 13.—President Aimson, of the International union, has arrived here, and will give his personal attention to the strike into which the union printers have been precipitated. All realize that there is a hard fight ahead. It is expected that the publication of the morning daily will begin with Thursday, and that Editor Gruelle, of the Labor Signal, will have editorial control of the new venture.

Of the seventy odd printers affected by the lock-out only six are known to have renounced their union allegiance, and these are William H. Kaylor, Henry James, Ed. G. Charles, Henry Humes, Willis Humes and Gamaliel Scott. They have been formally expelled from the union. It is expected that the International union will be able to command $4,000 monthly for the benefit of the unemployed printers, and this will be sufficient for the maintenance of those not able to live without assistance. All indications point that the Sentinel will be compelled to bear the brunt of the fight, after which all the forces will be concentrated on the Journal.

Brooklyn's Elevated Engineers.
NEW YORK, July 13.—The Brooklyn Elevated road this morning is running only four trains, the engines of which are manned by men who formerly switched the trains on the East New York end. The strikers state that they have demanded that the day's work be reduced from nine hours and fifty minutes to nine hours, and the pay of the firemen be increased from $1.75 to $2 per day.

A member of District Assembly 75 says that the employees of car lines in that assembly were notified to be in readiness to tie up at any moment. They offered the year's agreement made with the company as an objection, and it was taken as a valid one, but this morning the company broke the agreement by posting new time tables on which the number of "trippers" is greatly increased, and the men consider themselves no longer bound by it, and a general tie up may be ordered.

Boss Painters' Convention.
NEW YORK, July 13.—The third annual convention of the National Boss Painters' union opened this morning in the large hall of the Masonic temple. There were 362 delegates present, representing every state in the union. President John Berge occupied the chair, and John Beattie delivered the address of welcome. The convention will be in session three days. Its purpose, as Mr. Beattie expressed in his speech, is not to crush the workingmen out, but to talk over matters affecting the trade and to renew old acquaintanceship.

An Appeal to Miners.
PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—The Press says: "The executive board of the Miners and Mine Laborers' National federation has just issued an appeal to the miners all over the country to rise up and overthrow the methods pursued by the Miners and Mine Laborers' National District Assembly, 135, Knights of Labor. They claim that the chief aims of the latter seem to be that of defeating the federation in all its undertakings."

Horse Shoers Strike.
BOSTON, July 13.—The horse shoers employed by the Metropolitan and Consolidated Horse Railroad companies have gone on a strike for higher wages and shorter hours. They claim that the companies have violated promises recently made, and have discharged men because they asked for better treatment. The strikers number about seventy Knights of Labor.

Demand a Reinstatement.
CHICAGO, July 13.—The street car conductors and drivers belonging to a local assembly last night decided to demand the reinstatement of a man who was employed at the Blue Island avenue car barn. It was claimed at the meeting that there was no cause for the man's discharge and everyone was determined to strike in case he is not reinstated.

Turning Over His Property.
WASHINGTON, July 13.—An assignment has been executed by Oscar J. Harvey, the defrauding treasury official, of all his property for the benefit of his creditors. He recites that real estate he has none, nor any interest in any, and assigns his property, consisting of furniture and eight shares of stock of the First National bank of Wilkes-barre, Pa., now pledged with the Second National bank of that place to secure the payment of $700. He makes preference to the United States of $11,700, "Being the amount justly due said United States," and, after paying the same, he directs the payment to about a dozen creditors of an aggregate of $4,107.

A FATAL MISTAKE.

A Man Killed His Wife Thinking That She Was a Burglar.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., July 13.—A heart-rending tragedy occurred at the little village of Royal Center, in the northern part of this county at 2 o'clock this morning. W. A. Garner, a well-to-do resident, was awakened by hearing someone groping about the room. He saw a dimly outlined human form at a window, and jumping to the conclusion that it was a burglar drew a revolver from beneath his pillow and fired. The supposed burglar dropped to the floor without even a groan. Garner reached over to arouse his wife, but her accustomed place in bed was vacant, and then the horrible suspicion dawned upon his mind that perhaps he had taken her for a burglar.

Hastily leaping from bed and striking a match, he bent over the prostrate form and tremblingly scanned the features by his flickering light. The suspicion became truth. Lying in her nightgown, a bullet-hole piercing her body from back to breast, was Mrs. Garner. She was quite dead. Garner quickly aroused the neighbors and told them of his awful mistake. He was locked up pending an investigation. The poor man is heart-broken. Coroner Jordan has gone to the scene.

Georgia Asked to Pay $3,000,000.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 13.—Developments in the state legislature were decidedly sensational yesterday. They grew out of a demand from United States Senator Joseph E. Brown, president of the lessees of the Western & Atlantic Railroad company, for $3,000,000 for improvements. The senator shows that when he took possession of the road it had only 600 inferior cars, while now it has 1,400 latest style cars. This proportion holds good all the way through. The intimation was that if the state did not pay for these improvements they would be removed. Ex-Congressman William H. Fulton, who is a member of the legislature, at once moved that an injunction be served upon Mr. Brown, and that attachments be served upon all the appurtenances of the road. A bill to the same effect was also reported. Both will be acted upon later.

A Tramp's Terrible Revenge.

CELINA, O., July 13.—A tramp named Casper Link has placed his neck in the noose by a brutal deed at St. Henry, a small town near here. The old bum has been hanging about St. Henry for some time, and claims to be a Chicago Anarchist. While drunk Sunday night Link became involved in a difficulty with Bernard Braker in Burn's saloon, and the proprietor put him out. The tramp stated that Braker would not live until midnight. About 7 p. m. Link started to leave town, Braker, Cooper, Sniderbager and George Broerman going the same way. Suddenly Link whirled and struck Braker a terrible blow over the head, smashing his skull and killing him instantly. Turning from his victim he struck Sniderbager over the eye, knocking him senseless. He started for Broerman, who fled. Link was finally captured and placed in jail here.

The Presidential Party.

HOLLAND PATENT, N. Y., July 13.—President Cleveland and wife arrived here at 5:40 this morning, an hour and six minutes earlier than they were expected. They came from Utica by special train, comprising one coach and a New York Central hotel car. Only Mrs. Cleveland's maid accompanied them. They walked from the station to the "Weeds," the residence of Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, near by, where they were heartily received by the president's sister and his niece, Mary L. Hastings, of Clinton. The early arrival was a pleasant little surprise, but Miss Cleveland was all ready for her guests. The people of this place had intended to be out en masse to greet and welcome the president, and it is a matter of general regret that such pleasure was not had.

National Educational Association.

CHICAGO, July 13.—The National Educational association convened its session in this city this evening. The members and other persons interested in educational work began to arrive in large numbers yesterday. From the correspondence of the secretary of the association, Mr. James H. Canfield, it is estimated that there will be over ten thousand visitors in the city during this week. There will be several sessions daily until Friday evening at Central Music hall. All the sessions will be open and free of charge, except the first meeting. The proceedings will consist chiefly of literature and discussions, which will be highly instructive to all who are interested in educational matters.

Robbing the Unfortunate.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 13.—The story of the wreck of the steamer Merrimac is one of the most remarkable in the history of marine disasters. The people of the steamer escaped a terrible fate, after being driven ashore on a clear and cloudless night, but their baggage was rifled and many valuable articles stolen while the owners were on deck seeking to save their lives. The robbers were committed by members of the crew when they found there was no immediate danger of the vessel's sinking. The crew afterwards got uproariously drunk and added to the terror and confusion in launching the boats. All the circumstances considered, it is miraculous that no lives were lost.

Fight Between Robbers and Guards.

ST. LOUIS, July 13.—A special from Fort Worth, Texas, says: There was considerable of a flurry in the city at 11 o'clock last night. A rumor became current that a bloody fight had taken place near Little River, south of Fort Worth, on the Missouri Pacific, between robbers and guards. Little River is a watering station, and no news can be received from there. It is certain that officials of the road have cause to fear robbery and secretly put guards on both the north and south bound night trains, and the trainmen are also armed. The north bound train reached here without molestation. It is stated that Trainmaster Ray also accompanied the party.

A Dakota Hall Tornado.

PIERRE, Dak., July 13.—A terrific tornado and hail storm passed over the northern portion of Hughes and the southern portion of Sulley counties last night. Stones as large as hen eggs beat the crop out of time, while the wind laid houses low.

A BIG BLAZE

Burns Some of the Best Property in Chester—Principal Business House in Ashes.

THE LOSSES AND INSURANCE.

The quiet little town of Chester was visited by a destructive fire yesterday afternoon. About three o'clock flames were discovered in the residence of G. W. Holliday. The building was a story-and-half brick and frame, on the north side of the street railway, just east of the two-story brick house which has been occupied for some time by M. C. Hutchison as a general merchandise store and a residence. Adjoining Mr. Holliday's residence on the east was a small one-story frame house. These three buildings, together with several out-houses, closely adjoined each other, and were surrounded by the street railway on the south, a side street leading to the river on the west, and Holliday's brick yard on the north and east. When first discovered the flames had almost enveloped the roof of a small out-building immediately in the rear of Mr. Holliday's residence. Fanned by a brisk breeze, the fire spread rapidly. There was no engine at hand and the citizens had to fight the fire as best they could. The flames soon communicated to Mr. Holliday's residence, then to the small frame and to Mr. Hutchison's business house and home. It was seen the buildings were doomed, and the people turned their attention to saving the contents. By quick work a large part of the stock of merchandise and most of the household and kitchen furniture was gotten out of the burning buildings. Many of the women worked with a will as well as the men.

The alarm was sounded in this city, but down town the extent of the fire was not known at first. The Amazons, of the Fifth ward, responded promptly to the call for help, and went up with their engine. They had been at work but a short time, however, when some part of the engine was broken and they had to quit. In the meantime the second alarm had been sounded and the Neptunes went up with their engine. When they arrived on the scene, however, the buildings had been gutted. All that could be done then was to throw some water upon the heated walls and the burning window and door frames, and the heavier timbers of the floors.

The buildings will prove a total loss. Mr. Hutchison valued his two-story brick at $3,500. In this he had a stock of dry goods, groceries and general merchandise valued at something over $1,500. Part of his stock was saved, but in a damaged condition. He has an insurance of $1,200 on the building, and $1,300 on his goods.

Mr. Holliday valued his frame house at $800, and his residence and other buildings at $2,500 or $3,000. His insurance amounts to $1,500—$500 on the frame and $1,000 on the residence.

All the insurance is in the London and Liverpool and Globe, Dr. John T. Fleming, agent. The frame was unoccupied, Mr. Beuly having moved out of it only the day before.

The two story frame residence of Mr. Roe Carr, which is on the south side of the street railway, and directly opposite the burned buildings, was saved only by the hardest work. It was on fire several times, but dampened carpets were thrown over the roof, and a "bucket brigade" kept the flames down elsewhere.

It is a fortunate thing that the town is so sparsely built, otherwise the loss would have undoubtedly have been much heavier.

The trial of Wm. Workman, charged with wilful murder, was commenced yesterday afternoon. Workman was indicted at Mt. Olivet, and the case was brought here on a change of venue. The crime alleged was committed sometime in October, 1886. John L. Taylor, one of Robertson County's highly esteemed farmers, was shot one night at his home by a party of unknown persons, his death following a few days after. At the time the shooting occurred, he emptied a load of shot into one of his slayers. Workman was found the next morning at his home in the edge of Bracken with his face filled with shot. His arrest followed and owing to the excitement he had to be brought to this city for safe keeping. The indictment charges that he was present, aiding and abetting the killing of Taylor. The prosecution is represented by Commonwealth's Attorney Sallee, of this city, and Hons. O. S. Deming and W. W. Kimbrough, of Mt. Olivet. Workman's attorneys are Hon. W. H. Wadsworth, Messrs. Whitaker & Robertson, this city, and J. J. Osborne, Esq., of Mt. Olivet. The jury was completed this morning, and the evidence is now being introduced.

THE COMTE DE PARIS IN THE FRANCO-GERMAN TROUBLE.

Failure of the Figure to Create a Sensation—A Frenchman Out of France is Speedily Forgotten—Disturbances Over a Battle Anniversary—Foreign.

LONDON, July 13.—The report published in the Paris Figaro a few days ago of an alleged interview between the Crown Prince of Prussia and the Comte de Paris appears from a careful perusal of the continental press to have fallen flat and entirely failed of its object as a sensation. Who is there so silly and ignorant of European politics as to believe that the crown prince said to the Comte de Paris (if indeed he said anything to him at all), that the formation of a French ministry in which Gen. Boulanger should be a prominent factor would strain the relations between France and Germany to the point of a rupture?

If the crown prince were authorized to voice the sentiments of Germany in such a manner, or in fact in any manner which he is not in possession of authority to do, he would undoubtedly select an entirely different auditor. Sending verbal messages to the French government through the Comte de Paris, of all persons in the world, is quite as ridiculous as would be an application to Mr. Parnell for presentation to the queen, and no one knows this better than the crown prince.

The fact is that the legitimist press of Paris see their cause so rapidly becoming hopeless and its influence so steadily dying out that they eagerly seize upon any pretense to bring their claims or candidate into notice. A Frenchman out of France is so speedily forgotten that after the lapse of a few years the fickle multitude would consider it an impertinence on the part of even the Comte de Paris to attempt to recall himself to their memory. The so-called demonstration on the Isle of Jersey was ludicrously disproportionate to the expectations of the legitimists, and the reports as to its extent and the enthusiasm manifested were tremendously exaggerated.

There were very few Frenchmen of any importance present, while the residents of the island, of course, simply hailed the occasion as one affording them an opportunity to turn an honest penny for the visitors, and would have greeted the advent of a circus with equal gratification, accompanied by the same manifestations of rejoicing and display of holiday attire. The most ardent shouters of "Vive le Roi" were English toadies, who felt the occasion to be one by which they could be brought into some small notoriety in their special circles and whose proudest boast it will ever be that they have spoken a few words with, or shaken the hand of the exiled scion of royalty. This is the verdict of impartial visitors of the scene and the opinion is generally expressed by them that the affair had as little political influence as a horse race or a cricket match.

Battle Anniversary.

BELFAST, July 13.—The anniversary of the battle of the Boyne was celebrated here to-day throughout Ulster with unusual fervor, and was productive in many places of a great amount of disturbance. At Belfast Rev. Dr. Kane, grand master of the Orangemen, presided over a monster meeting. Violent speeches were made, and every indication pointed to an outbreak. The excitement is very intense. The city is overflowing with people who come from the neighborhood to celebrate the day. Small riots have occurred, and the police have had to be reinforced to prevent a general fight between the Orangemen and the Catholics.

The Queen at Osborne.

LONDON, July 13.—The queen left Windsor Castle this morning by special train for Southampton, where she embarked on the royal yacht Victoria and Albert for the Isle of Wight. She will remain at Osborne until the last week in August, when the court will be removed to Balmoral. Her majesty is in the best of health and spirits, and recognized with smiles and bows the plaudits of the crowds that witnessed her departure from Windsor and her arrival at Southampton.

A Dreadful Calamity.

An Odd Boycott.

DUBLIN, July 13.—The Carrigaholt regatta has been abandoned. This course was adopted by the promoters of the regatta, owing to a boycott because Mr. Burton, a magistrate, whose tenants are involved in the plan of campaign to resist eviction, had presented a cup for a prize.

The express train, which was crowded with excursionists, was crossing from the south bound to the north bound track at the time of the accident. Seven passengers, residents of Philadelphia, were injured, one seriously. Five freight cars were wrecked.

Telegraphing From a Coffin.

GUADALAJARA, Mex., July 13.—Yesterday the body of Juan Aminta, a telegraph operator, lay in its coffin in church ready for burial. A companion near it heard regular taps inside, which clearly indicated, "I am alive." Surprised, he gave the alarm, and the telegrapher, weak but still alive, was rescued and restored.

Anarchists Abandon Hope.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Gruenhut, the Socialist, says their friends have abandoned hope of a new trial for the Anarchists. About twenty-five persons will be sent through the state to get signatures to petitions to the governor to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Montreal's Police Force.

MONTREAL, July 13.—Some startling disclosures of the crooked methods of the Montreal police are to be made. Several months ago charges were made that implicated over one-third of the police force. They were charged with robbing passengers, extortion, blackmail and immoral and even worse treatment of female prisoners. The matter will be laid before the council Wednesday and the specific charges published. It will probably result in the disbandment of the entire police department.

Arrested on Arrival.

NEW YORK, July 13.—On the arrival of the steamship Bohemia from Hamburg today, a United States deputy marshal boarded her and arrested Israel Goldman, alias Joudel Chemnikner, who, it is alleged, fled from Odessa, Russia, with 20,000 rubles belonging to his employer.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Counsel for Mrs. Cignarole were informed by telegraph from Albany last night that Governor Hill had stated to the New York ladies who besought him to commute the sentence of the murderers that he would not interfere so long as legal remedies remained open. The case will therefore be taken to the court of appeals.
